

EVERYBODY WILL BE ASKED NEXT WEEK TO BE A JOINER

Banquet Monday Evening Preliminary to the Chamber of Commerce Membership Campaign

What promises to be the biggest event in the reorganization campaign of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce has been set for Monday evening at firemen's hall—the civic center.

J. D. Allen, president of the American City Bureau of San Francisco, which has charge of the Redwood City campaign, will be the principal speaker.

Mr. Allen has had many years of active chamber of commerce experience, he served with the army overseas and he is known throughout the state as one of the best speakers on civic subjects. He always has a message of interest and those in Redwood City who have heard him will be glad of an opportunity to hear him again.

Members of the Redwood City fire department will cook and serve the dinner. Past performances have proved to residents that the firemen always make good. This should be an added inducement for a large gathering.

Mrs. Alice Hand, who made such a hit at the community conference with some original writings, will present a playlet in which a number of boys will take part. Miss C. J. Boyle, teacher of English in the high school, will also present a playlet in which a number of high school girls will appear. They refuse to tell of their plans, so both will be surprise numbers.

A Redwood City orchestra will play during the dinner, there will be community songs, some stunts and a general good time. Those who intend attending the dinner are asked to make their reservations early, as the seating capacity will be limited to 200. Reservations have already begun to come in at campaign headquarters. Reservations can be made by mail or by telephoning 355. The dinner will be $1 per plate.

Community Conference
The biggest event of this week was the community conference which was held at firemen's hall on Monday evening, at which Col. C. A. Simmons, executive secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker. Colonel Simmons gave an excellent and practical address on chamber of commerce organization work, taking as his subject "The Guarantee of Tomorrow."

Colonel Simmons has been in the chamber of commerce work for many years and while his experience has been mostly in the east, he has been in western work long enough to understand local conditions.

He urged greater co-operation and by a series of pointed and humorous stories showed what effective work can be accomplished when a community gets together behind a project. The address seemed to be greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Alice Hand gave several original selections and Mrs. J. M. Evans gave a reading which was well received. Both women were forced to respond to encores. Miss Elizabeth Gillespie gave a delightful solo.

J. H. Blackmore explained the plan by which it is hoped to reorganize the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce and urged co-operation by the citizens in helping. Seventy-five of those at the meeting signed cards on which they pledged their services.

Campaign Workers
A hundred men and women, divided into teams and acting under the direction of four majors and 20 captains, will start out from campaign headquarters next Wednesday morning at 9 to sign up 400 members to Redwood City's new chamber of commerce. The men and women have held several meetings and have been thoroughly drilled in their duties. The city has been divided into districts and the workers will systematically comb both the residence, business and outlying districts for members.

Just before they start on their journeys the men and women who have volunteered their services for community betterment will pose for a picture which will be taken by Mason, the photographer. Following are the men and women who up to date have pledged their services in the drive for membership:

RUMOR LOCATES WOOD MILL IN REDWOOD CITY
A rumor was circulating about the town yesterday that a large eastern concern had purchased a large tract of land near Redwood City on which is to be established big wooden mills. The rumor had it that 500 dwellings would be erected on the tract for the employees. The source of the rumor could not be traced, but it is known that the tract in question has been sold recently, but for what purpose no one appears to know. If this good news proves true watch Redwood City grow and prosper.

NEW PAPER TO BE ISSUED AT HALFMOON BAY
H. E. Griffiths, who started the Halfmoon Bay Review, is to publish a new paper there beginning April 1. A new plant is being installed and Griffiths promises to put out a lively paper. He has been living in Stanislaus county for some time, engaged in newspaper work. As he is well known on the coast side of the county he will be in a position to put out a creditable publication.

Last week several members of the high school girls' dramatic club enjoyed a theater party in San Francisco. The play attended was "The Return of Peter Grimm," with David Wardfield taking the lead. Since this play is one of the best seen on a San Francisco stage for some time the girls felt that the evening was well spent and all voted the party a big success. Those who made the trip were Amelia Johnson, Dolores Lyons, Evelyn Heydenfeldt, Madeline Shields, Irene Crosby, Irma Follett, Maude Stillison, Mura Stillison, Margaret Kalenborn, Bernice Martin, Beatie Payne, Agnes Flynn, Una Chapin and Miss Catherine J. Boyle.

CHURCHES UNITE IN CIVIC SERVICES

Civic Sunday, which has been arranged as a part of the reorganization of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, will be celebrated with a mass meeting of the churches at the Congregational church on Sunday evening. The Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal congregations will attend the services. There will be no evening services in the city outside that arranged at the Congregational church.

Rabbi Martin A. Meyer of San Francisco has been invited to give the principal address. Rabbi Martin is a community idealist and his message will be one which all Redwood City will want to hear.

Redwood City has not celebrated a civic Sunday in many years and pastors of the various churches are hopeful that a large crowd will turn out to the united service.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church
Sunday services March 12—Holy communion, 8 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon at 11; Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.
Choir practice Thursday evening at 7:30.
Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Girls' Friendly Society meets at the rectory.

Baptist Church
Services Sunday morning, subject of Bible exposition, "God's Faithful Warring against Evil." In the evening the church joins in union meeting of the Congregational church in the interest of the reorganized chamber of commerce.

HARRAMAN WILL TELL OF MAKING RAILROAD RATES
A genuine treat is in store for the members of the Mt. Carmel Council of the National Council of Catholic Men at their meeting to be held on Tuesday, March 14, at 8 o'clock, at Mt. Carmel rectory.

Through the kindness of E. T. McGittigan a lecture entitled "How Transportation Rates Are Made" is to be delivered by J. C. Harraman, assistant rate expert of the California state railroad commission, formerly with the Wells Fargo Company and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The talk will be illustrated with lantern slides from a collection used by Mr. Harraman in a series of talks at the University of California and before many commercial and civic organizations.

All members of the council and their business friends and associates are invited to the lecture.

NEW TRUCKING SERVICE
W. F. Benedetti and W. A. Langley, two Woodside young men, have purchased a large Packard truck and are prepared to do a general hauling business in any part of the county. They will maintain headquarters at Woodside. Both are young, energetic and industrious and ought to meet with success in their new enterprise.

GREENLEAF IN SHAKESPEARIAN ROLES
On Wednesday, March 15, in the high school auditorium William Lee Greenleaf will present "Rip Van Winkle" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." With extraordinary ability Mr. Greenleaf interprets all the parts in the different plays he presents and so skillful is his work that one forgets that the entire company is not present.

It has been said of Mr. Greenleaf, "He comes nearer constituting an entire theatrical company than any one individual. He can so visualize the different parts of a play as to fill the mind's eye with the complete action. He electrifies the audience both with this quality of envisioning and with the timber of an exceptional speaking voice of many shades and a wide range of power."

"Rip Van Winkle" will be presented for the high school pupils in the afternoon at 2:30. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be presented at 3:45 for the grammar school pupils. Admission for pupils will be 15 cents; for outsiders 25 cents. Since it is not often that Redwood City gets such a chance as this it is hoped that a great many will attend.

WHIST PARTY ANNOUNCED FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY
Arrangements have been completed for the annual celebration of St. Patrick's Day by the members of the Mt. Carmel Aid Society, which will take the form of a monster whist party in Foresters' Hall on next Friday evening, March 17, at 8:30. The celebrations of former years have always been most enjoyable and everything promises a continuation of this happy tradition.

Crozier, for $15,350. Uncle Tom's Cabin when conducted by the late Andrew Buerk was one of the popular resorts of the peninsula. Guests gathered there from all sections of the state to enjoy a good meal and during the wet days many a hot bird and cold bottle were enjoyed there by the prominent people of San Francisco. STREET IMPROVEMENT PLANS ARE EXTENDED IN REDWOOD HIGHLANDS

Voters Will Decide on Water Plant Purchase and Trustees at Election April 10

The board of town trustees held a lengthy meeting Monday evening at which much routine business was transacted.

The chamber of commerce presented a protest against the poor class of buildings now being constructed in Redwood City and asked that the board adopt a suitable building ordinance. This matter was referred to City Attorney Albert Mansfield some time ago and that official has it under consideration.

D. R. Stafford, the Broadway merchant, asked for permission to move a small structure at the corner of Broadway and Winslow street to a lot owned by him adjoining the Union Oil service station at Broadway and the highway. The request was denied, as the moving of the building to the site asked for would be in violation of the existing ordinance.

At the suggestion of the chairman the board decided to include all the streets in Redwood Highlands between Hopkins avenue and Catherine street in the list that had been decided upon at the last meeting to be improved, and the city clerk was instructed to notify the E. K. Wood Company, owner of a number of lots affected, of this intention.

The trustees adopted a resolution favoring the establishment of an identification bureau by the county. Ernest Tucker was granted a license to conduct a store in the Fox building. He asked for the license to open the place and dispose of the merchandise there. The board has been closed by the board some time ago on account of liquor law violations.

F. K. Towne, town treasurer, reported the balance in the general fund on March 1 at $15,414.03 and in the water fund $18,081.43.

CASARETTO & MERRILL MAKE BIG IMPROVEMENTS
Casaretto & Merrill, proprietors of the City Market on Main street, have completed the installation of a refrigerating plant and ice house in their shop, making it possible to deliver meats and provisions to their customers in first class condition. The firm has spared no expense in the improvement of its market. There is a small refrigerator for the shop meats, while a larger one has been installed for beefs to cool and harden. There is also a new tank for corned beef and salt meats. The whole place is on a perfect sanitary basis. By automatic registration fresh air circulates throughout the whole plant. The temperature can not vary. It is kept at an even degree no matter what the weather conditions are. Nowhere on the peninsula is there a better equipped shop than the City Market of Redwood City. The firm deserves much credit for the large expenditure in making such a modern plant.

ANOTHER PIONEER HAS PASSED AWAY
The passing of William M. Newhall on Monday last following a long illness removes an old pioneer who had come to Santa Clara county in 1872. He was 88 years old. He came to the state at an early age, settling in San Francisco in 1852, and with his brother engaged in the auctioneering business. Both built up large fortunes. The deceased later engaged in the dry goods business. In 1872 he came to Belmont, where he owned a large ranch. For many years he followed the prosaic life of a farmer, adding more money to his already plethoric bank roll.

Mr. Newhall moved to Redwood City twelve years ago. Five years later he met with a sad mishap. While crossing the Jefferson avenue railroad crossing he was run down by a freight train and had a leg cut off. He received a small sum from the Southern Pacific Company for the injury. The company claimed no responsibility for the accident.

In the early days of the county Newhall took a prominent part in politics, being a leader in the Republican party. His widow, Emma G. Newhall, and three sons, William S. Newhall of Redwood City, Arthur and Ora Newhall of Santa Cruz, survive. George W. Newhall, wealthy San Francisco insurance broker, is a nephew.

The funeral was held Wednesday from the chapel of the Redwood City Undertaking Company, services being conducted by Rev. C. A. Parker of the Baptist church. Interment was in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF HERE ON VISIT

Judge Charles A. Shurtleff, associate justice of the supreme court of California, was in Redwood City yesterday calling on friends. The judge maintains a beautiful home at Menlo Park. He will be a candidate for the long term at the election next fall. The judge is a native of California and for many years practiced law with success in San Francisco. Last year he was appointed to his present position by Governor Stephens.

Judge Shurtleff is held in high esteem by the members of the bar of the state for his great legal learning, fairness in his opinions and for his industry and judicial temperament. He is popular with all who know him. The judge was born in Shasta county and there was a boyhood chum of L. P. Behrens, president of the First National Bank of this city. Both played marbles together, but neither is willing to tell who won the games. Judge Shurtleff will receive a tremendous vote in San Mateo county.

HOW MRS. PARROTT
DISTRIBUTES HER ESTATE

The last will and testament of Mrs. Emeline Donohoe Parrott was filed in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Nash on Wednesday for probate. Mrs. Parrott died on March 1. The instrument was executed on March 17, 1916. The bulk of the $40,000 estate is left to the seven children of the deceased. Since the execution of the will her husband and three children have died. The executors now alive are John Parrott, Jr., and her brother, Joseph A. Donohoe of Menlo Park.

The will provides for the following bequests: Rev. Charles Nicholas, S. J., director of St. Ignace church, Stanford Hill, Tottenham, London, $2,500; Rev. Mother Jane Fox, the mother vicar of Sacred Heart convent, Lake Forest, Ill., $1,200; Rev. Mother Prioresse of the Carmelite monastery, Santa Clara, $1,000; her grandson, Richard Tobin of Hillsborough, $1,000; her niece, Mary Donohoe, $500; her godson, Pierre de Treanton, $500; her nurse, Marjorie Campbell, $500.

All of Mrs. Parrott's jewels, furs and personal effects and the residue of her estate she left to be divided equally among her husband and ten children. The proviso is made that beneficiaries under 20 years of age shall receive only the income from bequests from the time they are 25 until they pass the 30-year mark.

Mrs. Parrott is survived by seven children—John Parrott, Jr., William G. Parrott and Mary Emeline Parrott, all of San Mateo; Mrs. E. J. Tobin of San Francisco, formerly Miss Abby Parrott; Miss Barbara C. Parrott, now in Paris; Mrs. Laurence Redding of Washington, formerly Miss Josephine Parrott, and Stephen V. Parrott.

Her husband and three of her sons died during the years of the world war. Edward died in France, where he was an aviator; Joseph died at Camp Fremont and Francis was killed in an automobile accident at Burlingame in 1917. John Parrott, Sr., died in 1918.

Knight, Boland, Hutchinson & Christian are the attorneys for the estate.

WHO WANTS TO BE QUEEN OF SANTA CLARA VALLEY?

Over 100,000 visitors are expected to be in Santa Clara for the great Mission Santa Clara centenary celebration to take place there the week of May 1 to 7, inclusive. The centennial will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the present Mission Santa Clara, the site of the University of Santa Clara. Civic, commercial and patriotic organizations all over the state are taking an active interest in preparations for the big centenary celebration and societies in Santa Clara Valley have already arranged for numerous features to be sponsored by them during the week of the centennial.

Martin V. Merle's famous "Mission Play of Santa Clara" is to be presented in the university theater on the afternoons of May 1, 6 and 7, and nights of May 2, 3, 5, 6 and 7. Over 60 students of the university will make up the cast of the dramatic classic which scored triumphantly upon its premier in 1913. The 1922 productions will be even more lavish than the 1913 performances, according to Merle, who is personally directing the rehearsals.

A hundred pretty girls will contest for the honor of being queen of the centenary celebration, the winning young lady to be crowned and enthroned on Monday afternoon, May 1. All girls now living in the Santa Clara Valley, as well as those living in other cities and towns, who were born in Santa Clara Valley, are eligible for honors. Mrs. Henry B. Martin, a prominent San Jose society woman, is chairman of the queen contest committee. Other big attractions scheduled for the week of the centenary are a three day wild west rodeo on May 5, 6 and 7, international alumni convention, banquet and reunion, May 8, civic celebrations at Santa Clara and San Jose and an open air political solemn religious service at Mission Santa Clara Sunday, May 7.

THREE CITIES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS A VERY AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

Proposes to Raise and Expend $12,000 Advertising the Advantages of the Peninsula

The first annual membership campaign of the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce, comprising San Mateo, Burlingame and Hillsborough, will start next week, according to Manager Daniel C. Imboden, who has planned the details of the campaign. Frederick J. Smith, treasurer of the organization, has perfected a very simple working budget for the chamber's activities during 1922. It provides $6,180 for office expenses, $12,000 for advertising and $6,000 for a survey of San Mateo county.

"Perhaps the item of most importance in the budget," says Imboden, "is the $12,000 appropriated for advertising during the year of 1922."

"Our chamber is composed of broad minded men and women, who realize that if the communities surrounding the three cities grow we must naturally expand in proportion. With this in mind, our advertising campaign will be framed to benefit the entire peninsula. In the San Francisco papers we will boost the peninsula as a home community and try to attract the hundreds of San Francisco men and women who now commute to east bay communities. Through eastern magazines and papers we will attract future 'native sons and daughters' of California to the peninsula."

"We have had a very successful year," says J. J. McGrath, president, in reviewing the activities of the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce since its organization a year ago. "Beginning our work a year ago, we were handicapped as is every new organization. However, the men and women of San Mateo, Burlingame and Hillsborough are progressive people and they set their whole heart and soul to promoting the best interests of this section."

BEHRENS AND EMMETT TRUSTEE CANDIDATES
L. P. Behrens and W. A. Emmett, whose terms as trustees of Sequoia Union High School expire on March 31, will be candidates for re-election. The election takes place on March 31. Both gentlemen have served on the board for a great number of years, always performing their duties fearlessly and with efficiency. They deserve re-election at the hands of the voters of the district. Having initiated the proceedings for the construction of the new high school building, they should be permitted to continue on the board until its completion. Both gentlemen are familiar with the plans, having given considerable time and attention to them.

COENENS DIVORCED
Nellie V. Coenen of Menlo Park secured a divorce from A. W. Coenen on Friday. She was awarded the custody of the two children and the defendant was obligated to pay $50 a month for their maintenance and support. He is an auto mechanic working for the Sullivan Auto Company at Palo Alto. James T. O'Keefe represented the plaintiff and Joseph J. Bullock the defendant.

NEW COLLECTOR FOR SAN MATEO COUNTY
John P. McLaughlin, internal revenue collector at San Francisco, has appointed Gustav B. Riso of Burlingame to be deputy collector for the San Mateo county territory to take the place of Frank L. Foppiano, who has been promoted to the position of assistant supervisor of collectors.

Mr. Riso is a staunch Republican and at the last election did some splendid work for the party. He is well known and well liked on the peninsula, having a large circle of friends. Mr. Riso is well qualified for the position, having had considerable experience. He was at the court house yesterday with Mr. Foppiano familiarizing himself with his duties as income tax collector. He is a brother of Frank Riso, who until recently was the cashier of the local branch of the Bank of Italy. Mr. Riso's many friends in the county are pleased to learn of his good fortune. He was for some time the buyer for Steinhart & Kelly, the large importers and exporters of New York with branches in California.

W. P. Hogan, the Main street plumber, who has the contract for the plumbing work on the George H. Rice Abstract Company's new building, will start work next week. The contract is for $750.

SHORTBRIDGE GAINS FAME

The Daily News of Dayton, Ohio, has been received at this office. It contains the McKinley Day address of Senator Samuel M. Shortbridge. The speech is one of the senator's best efforts and was delivered before an assemblage of the prominent citizens of Ohio. The News in commenting on the speech says:

"Senator Shortbridge is the finished orator. He is pleasing in his address and even in his sallies against the Democratic party and its leaders he was considerate and delicate in the handling of most of his points. Throughout the whole address it was pointed out there was not a sentence or a thought which might be taken as a keynote for the Republicans of Ohio to sound in the launching of their forthcoming campaign."

"Eulogy of the life and accomplishments of William McKinley and answers to the charges made against the Republican administration's accomplishments marked the address of the senator."

"To the praises of William McKinley Senator Shortbridge devoted the first part of his talk. He briefly reviewed the history of the martyred president's life and outlined the high points of his career as executive of the United States. The remainder of his address was devoted to the praises of the Republican party and to a review of the accomplishments of the present administration and some predictions for the future. The senator said:

"After eight years of Democratic demoralization of our internal and foreign affairs the Republican party less than a year ago came into control of the government. We found the ship of state rolling in the trough of the sea perilously near the rocks. Wilsonism had well nigh wrecked the republic. Executive incompetency, administrative extravagance, amateurism in not criminal mismanagement, thoughtlessness and reckless expenditure, vain and vainglorious adventures abroad in search of new worlds to conquer, meanwhile our domestic affairs were neglected, left the American people a heritage of problems difficult to solve, problems calling for calm thought and not rapid declamation. In spite of the Democratic opposition to every measure, well calculated to safeguard the nation, we have made the wholesome progress. Many of the inherited problems have already been wisely solved, many are in process of wise solution."

"No one, however hopeful and confident, expected that the Democratic wreck could be cleared away in a few summer months. The wonder is that we have done so much in so short a time."

"The misfortune of the Democratic declaimer in legislative halls and at the crossroads is that he thinks the people forget, he imagines that the jury can be misled by accusation without proof, that people are governed by blind partisanship rather than by thought and reason. Self-deluded, he seeks to delude others. How otherwise are we to account for the utterances this intelligent city heard with suppressed amusement a few nights ago?"

"What must be the thought of a public man who says that the 'un-American' vote decided the last contest for president?"

"What must be thought of a defeated candidate who says that 'the echoing cry of America first' is a mockery to human intelligence?"

"What must be the thought of a statesman (?) who in the light of the matured and deliberate verdict of November 2, 1920, now says that 'the currents of public opinion have steadily borne the destiny of America eastward, eastward, nearer each day to the seat of the league of nations at Geneva'?"

"Self-deluded man! But let us be charitable, let us be kind. He has not recovered from unconsciousness caused by that knockout blow delivered by Warren G. Harding on November 2, 1920."

"But how have we dealt with the nation's problems? Let me direct your attention to some of the splendid achievements of the present administration. Since the government is a practical thing, let us consider what it costs. In every department there has been, and there goes on, a steady reduction of cost without loss of efficiency. On the contrary, the reduction of cost has resulted in better service to the people. By reorganization and improved methods the business of government is carried on more satisfactorily to the people at vastly less expense."

habilitation of the nation's sons wounded in battle.

"We have provided $75,000,000 for the improvement and building of national highways."

"We have enacted a law establishing a budget system. The gratifying result is we have put the administration of government business on a business basis."

"We have passed an emergency tariff law which has been a wall guarding against inundation of foreign products destructive of our own industries."

"We have passed an immigration law the purpose of which was and the effect of which has been to protect America from overflow by European immigrants."

"We have reformed and improved the internal revenue law, reducing taxes and, among other things, doing away with the so-called nuisance taxes."

"We have done what no other nation has done: we have reduced taxation and at the same time reduced the national debt."

"We have not forgotten the sorrow of Europe. We have fed and clothed and ministered to the hungry, the naked, the sick. And yet in utter disregard of the facts, we are told by a pessimistic Ohio publicist that the administration has failed to lend assistance to Europe."

"We have made peace with Colombia, whereby an old and estranging controversy was settled and the Panama canal safeguarded."

"We have made peace with Germany. In making peace we do not condone, we do not forget. 'Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord. I will repay.'"

"We loaned Europe $10,000,000,000. We shall see to it that that debt, with accrued and accruing interest, is paid. In order to make that loan we borrowed from our own people; we must pay and the Republican administration insists that Europe must pay."

"Among other wise measures passed by the administration may be mentioned the agricultural credits act, the Capper-Tincher act, the packers' act, the Philippine reorganization whereby those islands were saved from bankruptcy, the reorganization of the Indian bureau, the reorganization of the shipping board."

"And what of our foreign affairs? True to the American doctrine of protection to American labor—the doctrine by William McKinley championed and defended with unfaltering courage and unwavering faith—the Republican administration will enact a genuine American protective tariff law—a law adequate to protect American labor and industry from disastrous competition with the products of cheap European and Asiatic labor."

"All this we have done, all this we shall do, in spite of the Democratic dreamers and declaimers, in spite of and in disregard of Democratic prophecies of gloom. Fear not citizens of Ohio, the ship of state is once more officered and manned by a competent crew. Fear not, the ship is sound, the goods and living souls that ship laden with a nation's hopes and fortunes, will ride the waves in safety and honor and bring up into the harbor of plenty and peace."

"This nation, saved by their valor, owes a great and sacred duty to the soldiers and sailors. To those who died for us we owe the tribute of our hearts. To those who were left behind, bereft of husband, father, or son, we owe a solemn duty that must and shall be performed."

"To the brave boys who returned wounded in body, impaired in mind, we owe our loving care and every assistance. Nothing must be spared, nothing will be spared to restore them to health and strength and happiness."

"To the brave boys who providentially returned unharmed in body and mind, but wrecked in opportunity and fortune, we owe a duty, we owe, not only praise and gratitude, but reimbursement for material losses suffered. Call it 'bonus,' call it 'adjusted compensation,' call it what you will, this nation proposes—to discharge that duty."

THE GIRLS IN POLITICS

It seems like California women are about the same as they were when it comes to active participation in political affairs. Right away after the ballot was granted them they were very active. As the novelty of the situation has worn off they don't care to be bothered with such things any more. But when they do take an interest the old times in political affairs may rest assured that they know and want plenty more to meet the feminine competition."

When Colorado women took up their duties as voting citizens they worked schemes that were fairly dazzling by their oddity. Twenty years ago there were more varieties of political parties in Colorado than in all the rest of the United States. Anyone who had a pet idea formed a new political party, chose an emblem and went to work. The women had several of their own invention. All disappeared in time."

Here's one of their schemes: A group of women wanted to see their husbands in power at the city hall. They didn't put it that way—it was too crude. So they formed a civic purity party. It was made up mostly of members of the woman's club. These same women were members of a civil service reform league, of various church societies and so on. Each society was invited to send delegates to the nominating convention. In this way all of the members of the particular group became delegates and a large number of organizations had representation; but the membership of all the organizations was made up of the hundred or so women in the lead."

Then they made a play that was botherome. They asked votes at the election. It was all easy enough to control the convention, but with the election it was different. A bright idea occurred to one of them. Why not invite the central labor body to send delegates to the convention? The invitation was extended, but it raised a question that had not occurred to the women schemers. A member of the central body wanted to know why every union was not entitled to a delegate. The schemers explained that such representation would give the labor folks a big majority in the convention, which would not be fair. Then the labor men pointed out that the women so anxious for reform represented only about a hundred people while the unions represented thousands. The labor men insisted on a fair representation; otherwise they would not have anything to do with the movement. That was denied and the reformers held their nicely packed convention, put up their candidates and actually secured election of some of them. It was a great scheme and it was fairly successful."

But after all the women did not care to mix in political matters. The political business was left more and more to the men and has drifted back to former conditions. In California much the same thing is going on. A woman candidate is a novelty nowadays. To be sure a few come out each year, but the number entering into competition for political preferment is pitifully negligible. In some positions they have served creditably, but no better than men. In other places they have been lamentable failures—no more so than the men—but treated with the utmost leniency and courtesy because they are women. Politics has very little more attraction for them than it has for the average man. Women perform their duties as citizens and voters without any great enthusiasm and probably will continue to do so. But the promised reforms that the advocates of equal suffrage were so confident would be wrought have not materialized. The votes for women movement is neither a success nor a failure. It has merely increased the voting population without making a radical change in results achieved."

WILL WE LOSE $620,000 WORTH OF CITIZENS?

Does Redwood City want to lose $620,000 worth of citizens? At the community conference Monday evening it was announced as a result of a questionnaire sent to students of Sequoia Union High School that 124 out of a total of 195 answering intended to leave Redwood City on concluding high school work. It is estimated that it costs $5,000 to bring a child to maturity. Figuring on this basis the city stands to lose $620,000 worth of citizens by the departure of these young people.

One of those who attended the meeting was M. L. Watts, a new arrival in Redwood City. He was strongly impressed with the result of the questionnaire showing that so many intended to leave the place of their birth, the place that cradled them and the place that gave them an education and laid the foundation for their future and practically formed their characters. He does not favor the idea of giving the home town the "cold shoulder" upon attainment of seniority. He believes when they consider more seriously how valuable they are to the future progress of the home town and in return how this community will reward them for their concentrated effort and unity of purpose toward the proper upbuilding and future greatness of this, one of the best located and planned cities of this great, prosperous and fast expanding section. Watts has done some wandering himself. His sentiments toward the home town have been put in verse as follows:

A WANDERER'S RETURN

Once again I rest my eyes upon the scenes of long ago,
And I wonder, friends and kindred, if you all know what I know;
And I wonder, friends and kindred, if you all know what it means
To a wanderer to be back among the old familiar scenes.

My soul is rich in gladness and my heart in pure delight,
And the days I've spent with sadness, no more I feel their bite.
Instead the tempered handshakes of the friends I call my own—
I feel and I am glad again to find myself back home.

With here and there a landmark where'er my eyes may rest,
And I could not decide for worlds which one I love the best.
There's the courthouse with its old time clock that's seen its better days,
And the river to west of it that will never change its ways.

And better still the old time friends and new ones that I meet
Give me more of gladness as I walk along the street;
For I know there lies in every heart—I'm sure there lies in mine—
A touch of past which we know will last—a spark of joy divine.

The old home town seems mighty nice, for time's doctor of wounds,
And those who leave to pay the price return with a thousand songs.
For they sing of days that used to be as well as of days to come,
For days spent away never mean to us as much as days that are spent at home.

Wearily is the soul of him who leaves his home and love
And goes to foreign lands and climes to strive in vain to move.
He's a wandering hawk upon the seas where tempests rage,
To founder on the rocks of time from lack of true guidance.

So I warn you, gentle brother, in your travels o'er the earth,
Never leave to never return to the place which gave you birth.
Your thoughts keep ever on the ones you leave behind,
No, never leave to never return to the people of your kind.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI WANT HEDGE FOR TRUSTEE

The feeling having existed for some time that an alumnus of Sequoia should be a member of the board of high school trustees, the executive committee of the alumni association has taken the matter up thoroughly with the body of the organization and is convinced that the time is opportune for carrying out this idea.

After carefully canvassing the membership of the alumni for someone who would represent the confidence of the alumni from all districts, the executive committee selected the president of the association, James D. Hedge, '99.

Realizing that this sentiment has been growing steadily for some time, the committee in asking you to support its candidate, feels that it represents not only every member of the alumni but also all of the friends of Sequoia.

"A Sequoia for Sequoia."

The endorsement is signed by the executive committee of the Sequoia Alumni Association, consisting of Comte O'Connell, Emma Hayward Kelenborn, Henry Beeger, Petra Johnston, Frank Griffin and Irene Dickson Lee.

Clarence Henshel, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. Herbert Slinger, the taxi owner, slipped over to Oakland on Tuesday and was quietly married to Miss Adeline Johnson, the pretty Redwood City girl. The affair was an elopement, but the young people have been forgiven and they are now happily located at Menlo Park, where they will reside. The bridegroom is a nice young fellow, well liked, and the young wife, who is only 15 years old, is comely and is very happy with her young husband. All is well that ends well.

SEQUOIA HIGH SCHOOL ANNEXES PENNANTS

By Maude Stilleston, '22

Sequoia celebrated one of the most glorious days in the history of the school yesterday when the two champion teams were awarded the block S sweaters.

At 11:30 the students were called to the assembly to participate in one of the biggest and best rallies ever held. It was a very glorious moment and all the students were stimulated with the Sequoia spirit. Under the splendid leadership of the yell leader "Choke" Torres, the rally started off with a boom. Several visitors who are believed to be in every activity entered the assembly and were given a rousing welcome. Then came the great feature of the rally. After a thrilling skyrocket for the champions of the Peninsula Athletic League, the assembly was hushed and the victorious champions of the unlimited and the 130-pound teams filed into the assembly to take their places of honor in front of the admiring student body.

The student body president, Toland McGottigan, spoke of the glorious victories which Sequoia had won. Sequoia may well be proud of the two teams which had fought hard and played fair and square throughout the season. James Hedge, president of the alumni association, congratulated the teams for this splendid victory of both aggregations and extended his appreciation of the spirit of the student body, which was a great factor in spurring the teams to victory.

Mrs. A. S. Kallenborn, representative of the women of the alumni, thanked the boys for the honor they had brought to Sequoia and complimented the student body for its support at all the games. "Male" Robertson, captain of the unlimited champs, thanked the student body for its untiring support. Captain Jones of the 130-pound team stated that his team would try doubly hard to win more glories for Sequoia in the games for the state title.

The honored guest at the rally was Harry Malone, athletic director at Stanford University. He spoke of the absolute necessity to play fair and square and to keep fit for any strenuous contest. He has taken a special interest in athletics at Sequoia and we are very fortunate to have the support of such a distinguished athletic critic. Mr. Malone awarded the sweaters and blocks to the two teams and pandemonium broke forth from the enthused student body. Mr. Malone was highly congratulatory in his praise of the Sequoia champions. Captain Robertson presented a sweater and block letter to Coach Griffin, who was chiefly responsible for the great glory which has been brought to our school.

Sequoia's greatest rally ended with the loyalty song led by "Choke." Perhaps the greatest tribute ever paid to a high school yell leader was given by Mr. Malone when he said, "Some day I expect to see Sequoia's yell leader before the rooting section of Stanford University leading the Stanford student body in their yells."

From a report by one who is widely known in athletic circles two of Sequoia's unlimited men have been named on the (unofficial) all league team of the P. A. L. These two men are Robertson at center and DeLuchi at guard. Parsons at center, Mitchell and Thompson as guards are named on the 130-pound all league team. This is a great honor for Sequoia and all the student body realize the reputation that our school spirit has given Sequoia among other schools of the league.

Those who received their blocks were: Unlimited—Robertson, C. DeLuchi, Lodi, Britsch, Driven, MacArthur, Cofori, Harper and Scherer. 13-pound—Jones, C. Smith, Parsons, Mitchell, Thompson, Allain, Seis, Locatelli, Flores, Merrill and Torres. Bill Johnson, athletic manager, was also awarded a block for his faithful work for the team and the school. Coach Griffin was given a like reward for his splendid coaching. Parson is now wearing two stars with his block S and Mitchell is wearing one.

Mr. Barrett has just returned from his wedding trip, having been married to Miss Margaret Jackson of San Francisco three weeks ago at Pacific Grove. In one of the campaigns he was gassed and was compelled to remain in the hospital. Unlucky in the mountains in the vicinity of La Honda. The guards made a thorough search of this community but found no traces of the escaped prisoners, who are desperate characters.
